Elephants Asleep

A question often raised in regard to the African elephant is whether these animals ever rest or not. At first blush it would appear that there could only be one answer to the question. So huge an animal must expend a terrific amount of energy and, therefore, as one might reasonably infer, must need more time than smaller animals for rest and reinvigoration. Nevertheless many travellers and some naturalists have asserted that the African elephant in its native state never sleeps, or at least never lies down. A correspondent who has sent photographs direct from Malek on the White Nile, says in the communication that accompanies them that the picture "represents a herd of female elephants photographed in the bush near Malek, in the Mogalla Province of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. It has been maintained that the African elephant never lies down to rest. Several may be seen thus sleeping."

SHE STRUCK AT ROOT OF TROUBLE

MRS. COMEAU CURED HER KIDNEYS WITH DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

And Her Heart Trouble, Backache and other ailments disappeared. Says she owes her good health to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Petit Rocher, Gloucester Co., N. B. (Special).—When Mrs. Pierre I. Comeau, a well-known and highly respected resident of this place cured her kidney disease, her heart trouble and other aches and pains also disappeared. She cured her kidney disease easily and quickly by using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"My heart troubled me all the time," Mrs. Comeau states; "and I feared for the terrible result that might follow. My limbs would swell, my back ached and I was always tired and nervous.

"These symptoms led me to believe that kidney disease was the root of all my troubles, so I turned to Dodd's Kidney Pills. Before I had finished the first box the swelling was gone, my back was well and my heart no longer troubled me. I am now in the best of health, and I owe it all to Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Always strike at the root of the trouble. And in nine cases out of ten all women's troubles start with the Kidneys. That's why Dodd's Kidney Pills are woman's best friend.

Eight Years of Bad Eczema on Hands

Cured by Cuticura Soap and Ointment

Miss Mary A. Bentley, 93 University St., Montreal, writes, in a recent letter: "Some nine years ago I noticed small pimples breaking out on the back of my hands. They became very irritating and I could not sleep at night. I consulted a physician who treated me a long time, but it got worse, and I could not put my hands in water. I was treated at the hospital, and it was just the same. I was told that was a very bad case of eczema."

"Well, I just kept on using everything that I could for nearly eight years until I was advised to try Cuticura Ointment. I did so, and I found after a few applications the burning sensations were disappearing. I could sleep well, and did not have any itching during the night. I began after a while to use Cuticura Soap. I still used the Cuticura treatment, though. If I could not use other remedies for over seven years with no result, and after only having a few applications and finding ease from Cuticura Ointment, it deserved a fair trial with a soaps and stubborn case. I used the Cuticura Ointment and Soap for nearly six months, and I am glad to say that I have hands as clean as anyone. I only wish that you would tell all the world, and if anyone doubts it, let them write me."

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. For a liberal free sample of each, with 32-p. book, send to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., 58 Columbus Ave., Boston, U. S. A.

The Human Body

Accepting 134 pounds as the weight of the average man, we find that water alone accounts for 109 pounds of the whole. Every fibre and every cell that enters into the formation of the human body is bathed in moisture, and even the bones, which appear to be so solid are more than half water. That our bodies are full of water is proved by the blisters that arise after the infliction of a burn. In fact, water plays a very important part in the human anatomy, and but for its agency the vital process would soon cease.

A Mild Pill for Delicate Women.—The most delicate woman can undergo a course of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills without fear of unpleasant consequences. Their action, while wholly effective, is mild and agreeable. No nausea and purging follow their use, as thousands of women who have used them can testify. They are, therefore, strongly recommended to women, who are more prone to disorders of the digestive organs than men.

Robert Herrick, the author, was talking at a luncheon in Chicago about literary figures.

"Figures," he said, "are only good when they illuminate, when they underscore or italicize one's meaning."

"As I passed a building operation the other day I heard the foreman employ an excellent figure."

"What are ye' doin' up there, Smith?" he shouted from the pavement.

"A head appeared above and an injured voice replied:

"Layin' bricks, of course."

"Well, by gosh," said the foreman, "from yer silence ye might be layin' eggs."

Minard's Liniment Cures Diphtheria.

A story of John Drew's wit is curtailed on New York's rialto.

Mr. Drew, at a New England luncheon of turkey and pumpkin pie—turkey and pumpkin pie are nowhere better served than at Moupin's—had the ill fortune to be seated by a bore and failure.

This bore and failure, a tragedian, lamented the fact that he couldn't get a place as "lead," and put the blame upon the press.

"There's a conspiracy of silence against me," he said. "A universal conspiracy of silence. What ought I to do. Drew?"

"Join it," said Drew, nervously twisting up his moustache.

The champion stingy church congregation has been found in Marshalltown, Ia. The pastor of the Friends' Church there resigned when his flock voted to cut his salary from $1,000 a year to $800. That was bad enough, the pastor thought, for a man with a wife and six children to support, and he decided it was rubbing it in for the church to demand that he keep account of all fees received and credit the amount on his reduced stipend. He has quit in disgust.

Pat was standing near the car track when he noticed an automobile coming up the street and to be safe he stepped back a little from the car track.

The auto went passed, and just as it was passing, the driver had occasion to turn off the track, causing the back end of it to swing around striking Pat and knocking him down.

Pat was seen to get up and look after the car and say, "Now, what's that you think of that—when ye stand in front o' them, they run over ye; and when ye git out of the way to let them pass they turn around and kick ye."

BOWDEN, ALTA. FEB. 1, 1912

The Public School Lectures

The News is extremely glad to hear that a series of lectures on subjects having a practical bearing on farming. The school trustees are to be congratulated on their new enterprise, which, it is believed is the first step in Alberta to co-operate the work of the school with that of the higher education of the people.

The trustees have shown that they have grasped the right idea of education in that the true work of an educational system does not terminate in the school but has a wider horizon. The educational influence of a district is not complete without it instructs the community. The lectures will enhance the ideal of the trustees, and should prove a great boon to the general public.

Western Canada is a truly agricultural country. The wealth of the Prairie Provinces lies in the soil. The only way to reap the full benefit of nature's lavishness is in the knowledge of sound agricultural principles and the aim of these lectures is to establish the idea of these principles.

An important feature of the course is six lectures on commercial business relative to the farm. A marked failing of the farmer is his lack of knowledge in commercial methods. The commercial subjects embrace mortgages, transfers of property, drafts, bank exchange notes, collections and discounts; a sound of knowledge of which the average man ought to possess.

It is to be hoped that the public at large will take advantage of the instructive lectures and assist in the advancement of higher education.

The Short Course Schools

Next week the department of Agriculture will open at Olds their Short Course Schools in Agriculture which the department hold annually at different points throughout the province. The educating of the farmer to the proper application of the latest and best scientific methods in Agriculture is the aim of the department in the operating of these schools. All lectures and work is illustrated by practical demonstration which is the best way of teaching any subject.

The curriculum covers every branch of work from the establishment of the household to the marketing of the products. Hygiene and sanitation are clearly and properly explained and the correct methods applying to the practise of good cooking are taught by experts. The subjects of Live Stock, Dairying, Agronomy and Poultry Raising are all in the hands of capable and practical teachers who prove their theories and practices by demonstrations on the subjects treated in their lectures.

For a full course the department charges no fee; all classes being open to everyone.

Should Test Seed

Owing to the lateness of the crop last year together with the early frosts and the consequent injury to a large amount of grain through the province. It is necessary that the farmers have their seed tested before sowing. This applies particularly to oats and barley, in which frost injury is often difficult to detect. Quite frequently one finds that plump, heavy oats are more liable to serious injury, particularly if the frost catches them at an early stage; a frost of a few degrees in the milk stage often being sufficient to ruin oats for seed. Samples will be tested free of charge at the Seed Laboratory, Calgary, to which all communications should be addressed. Seed envelopes suitable for sending samples may be had on application.

Sounds Fishy

The Mullets and the Crabs had a discussion on the making of grub. The crabs contended it was not right to let the lobster. That may be right said the halebut "I like to do everything in its right place." Further discussion was interrupted by a big cod-fish who called out: "if the bayonet ceased to angle would the swordfish."

HAUNTED

BY GERTRUDE WARDEN

Author of "Dancing Leaves," "The Sentimental Sex," "The Crime of Monte Carlo," etc., etc.

WARD, LOCK & CO., LIMITED
London, Melbourne and Toronto

The landlord, a heavy-built, depressed looking individual, stared at him in a bewildered way.

No gentleman had come back to fetch papers he asserted, nor had anyone of the name of Sarto, or answering to the appearance Harry described, been an inmate of his hotel of late. He even consulted his books in order to make more certain, and, when Harry remarked that his acquaintance must have stopped at some other hotel, the landlord became almost aggressive, and assured him that his, the "King's Head," was the only hotel in Bloxham, and even the only inn of any importance.

He waxed so quarrelsome over this point that Harry was glad to find refuge in the coffee-room, in which he partook of a solid meal of hot roast beef, boiled potatoes, greens, custard pudding, rhubarb tart, and cheese, in the society of three farmers, two commercial travellers, and a couple of Cockney cyclists on a holiday tour.

Always ready to interest himself in a fresh experience, Harry, the champion athlete of a New York college, heir to a colossal fortune, and darling of fashionable New York society, made friends by his simple courtesy with the other guests, and listened to the odd contrast between the ugly mincing dialect of East London and the broad, soft, and not inharmonious speech of Dorset.

Finally, at eight o'clock, he paid his bill and strode out into the silent streets, without mentioning to anyone that his destination was Crayborne. "A little village," where there was "nothing to see," but which had been much visited by excursionists years ago when "the crimes were on."

He had not dared to ask about the "crimes," fearful lest they might be connected with the name of Clavel, which, as the hazel-eyed English actress had told him four months ago, "always brought ill-luck." He was going on a pilgrimage to the home of his ancestors to learn about them discreetly, with due reverence for their memory. So he strode on along the lonely roads under a radiant summer moon, which shone on fields and tall hedgerows, and through the branches of overhanging elm trees, and here and there on the creamy-white walls of cottages, with lattice-work dormer windows under great roofs of projecting thatch, shut within a few feet of gardens full of sweet-smelling flowers, all fast asleep.

Five or six miles, they told him, lay between Bloxham and Crayborne. Something in his blood more than the actual distance, taught him that his feet were upon the land wherein his people had lived and died. And at Crayborne itself, in a little wood by the roadside into which he had stepped to listen to a bird's note, his first adventure came to him in a woman's cry for help.

CHAPTER V.

The Lady of the Wood

"I cannot do it! I have done enough for you already!"

The words, uttered loudly and despairingly in a singularly sweet woman's voice, reached Harry's ears immediately after the cry for help. At once he dashed through the brushwood in the direction of the speaker, and came upon two struggling figures, a man and a woman.

The man had one hand upon the woman's shoulder and was grasping her arm roughly with the other. At sight of Harry he at once released his hold and slunk back into the wood; but not before Harry had realized that he was a red-headed, round-backed fellow of loutish, ill-favored aspect, dressed in the garments of a field-laborer.

Clearly he was some importunate rough, threatening a lady; for, even while her back was turned towards him, Harry knew that the tall figure in a hooded cloak reaching to her feet belonged to a gentlewoman.

He would have sprung into the woods after the man, but that the lady laid her hand upon his arm to detain him.

"Pray let him go," she said tremulously. "He is not quite right in his

BAD CASE OF GRIP

Caused Sore Throat and Tonsilitis. Restored by Peruna.

Mr. W. H. Housley, Greenville, Tennessee, writes:

"Five years ago I took a very severe cold which resulted in la grippe. I never was so bad off. I was in bed several weeks, and when I did get up I had tonsilitis and sore throat.

Mr. W. H. Housley.

"I tried to cure this for eighteen months, but it gradually got worse. A doctor advised me to have my tonsils cut out, but I did not like the idea. Another doctor examined me, and told me the same thing. I finally got a bottle of Peruna, and after I had taken one bottle my throat was better. I bought and used a dozen bottles, and saw I was going to get well, and I did."

head. I—I have often helped him." "But shouldn't the fellow be taught a lesson," suggested Harry. "Especially if you have already been charitable to him."

"We all want charity," she said, still holding his arm. "I must beg you to let the man go."

He had never in his life heard such a voice as hers. It was sweet and deep, and so full of music that he longed to make her speak again. Her manner had a certain authority, as of one more used to command than obey; and her hold on his arm was determined, so that he could feel the strength in her long, slim fingers through his sleeve.

He was so convinced that she would be beautiful that it was small surprise to see her face as she raised it to his, with the moonlight full upon it. She was nearly as tall as he, and her dark hood, falling away from her hair, seemed like the calyx protecting some rare flower.

Yet, as far as features went, the face was not classically perfect. In outline it was too square, the chin was prominent and a little heavy, the well shaped mouth was large, and the nose small by comparison with the width across the eyes, which were set very wide apart. Harry saw none of the trifling blemishes; nor, indeed, did any man in all this woman's life finds defects in her beauty, as he gazed into her shining blue eyes, and watched the slow smile gather in them and curve her mobile lips.

"Of course, if you wish it, I will let the man go," Harry said, hardly able to remove his gaze from her delicate face, which seemed of unearthly beauty in the moonlight. "But is it safe for you to be in this lonely place, unattended? May I accompany you as far as your home?"

She smiled, and her smile completed his subjugation. For it revealed two rows of small, even, white teeth like a child, and brought a dancing light into her eyes.

"Indeed, there is no danger for me," she said. "I have lived here thirteen years."

She led the way out of the wood on to the high road, where she paused for a moment, with head on one side, as though listening intently. Then she turned to Harry and graciously bent her head.

"Thank you," she said. "for your wish to assist me. Good evening."

She was moving away when he joined her, feeling, indeed, unable to let her go.

"Pardon me," he said, "but you say you live here. Will you tell me whether I am near the village of Crayborne? I have walked over from Bloxham." She did not answer at once, but stood on the road, looking at him. "This is Crayborne," she said at last, slowly. "The village is at the bend of the road. I see you are carrying a bag. You surely do not mean to stay here?"

To his surprise he noted in her voice a sound of annoyance and alarm.

"I hope to pass some days here," he returned.

"But there is nothing to see here or to do," she returned eagerly. "Visitors never come. There is Glenstone harbor a few miles out of Bloxham, and Seacombe Bay, and Bere Longford, and Closworth Abbey; they are all within reach of Bloxham. But here there is absolutely nothing."

She spoke more quickly than was her wont, as though insisting upon his departure from Crayborne, and she stopped still in the middle of the road while addressing him, fixing her strangely bright blue eyes upon his face with what seemed an anxious expression.

"Yet you live here?" he said slowly. By the moonlight he saw her face flush faintly, a pale rose tint creeping over her cheeks and her low white brow.

"Ah, I," she murmured, and there was a world of mournfulness in her tone. There are some people who grow up among shadows and cannot bear the sunlight. But Crayborne is not for the young and vigorous and hopeful. It is a place to dream in, to die in—not to live in."

The words left her lips almost inaudibly. By this time so strong was the spell of her beauty and her strange, commanding personality in the unreal moonlight that Harry Claveworth felt ready to live anywhere to be near this unknown lady of the wood.

"I have come a very long way to see this part of the world," he said. "I cannot leave it before I have explored it thoroughly."

She moved her head impatiently.

"I have told you there is nothing to see," she said. "A new staring brick inn, a few cottages and one or two shops of all sorts, a ruined manor-house by a sluggish stream, a mouldering abbey, then trees and fields and a dairy farm or two. That is Crayborne."

"To an American it sounds enchanting," Harry assured her. "I have travelled all this way just to see ruined manor-houses by sluggish streams, and mouldering abbeys. And a few ghosts, Crayborne would realize my ideal."

"Oh, there are ghosts enough," she exclaimed with a shiver. "There are ghosts everywhere if we have eyes to see them. Don't you know what Longfellow says: 'All houses wherein men have lived and died are haunted houses.' We evoke our own ghosts wherever we go."

"I have not enough imagination for that."

"Perhaps you have not enough to remember."

She looked full into his face as she spoke, with her own head in shadow as the moonlight fell on his. They were walking slowly down the road in the course of this talk, and, after they had passed the turn, Harry could see some scattered buildings at a little distance. He was afraid lest at any moment she might dismiss him, so he caught up the talk lest the pauses might suggest to her the opportunity.

"I have come to Europe to get some memories," he observed. "At present I have only sport, amusement, college life and modern comforts photographed in my brain. I have been with my people to Paris, Rome, Vienna, Nice, London, and Florence during their seasons; but I have only a kaleidoscopic recollection of the towns. I want a spot where ivy grows, where there are ghosts and legends and stories, and where I can just dream about them."

"England is full of such places," she exclaimed impatiently. "Why come here?"

He felt that he must tell the truth to the lady of the wood.

"I have come here," he answered slowly, "because I am on my way to Llyllyngton Court, where my father was born and where my ancestors lived before him."

"It is not true!"

She had stopped short in her walk, and spoke in fierce excitement. Before he could answer she broke out again, her mellow voice sounding almost sharp in her agitation.

"You are an American, and, of course, you cannot know what you are saying. Someone has been deceiving you, inventing a pedigree for you. I have heard of such things before. Your ancestors may have been English, but they cannot have lived at Llyllyngton Court. The place was built nearly three hundred years ago by a Dorsetshire family: before that they lived at a manor-house here in Crayborne, and hunted on the land where Llyllyngton Court now stands. No one else has ever owned the estate or lived there, until quite lately.

And of the old family, not one member exists; not one!"

She spoke the words defiantly. He could see that she was trembling from head to foot. Her excitement communicated itself to him, and he felt half afraid to pursue the subject.

"The name of the family was Clavel," he said.

She put up her hands to her ears.

"Don't let me hear the name!" she murmured in a low, frightened voice. "No one speaks it here. I hate the sound of it!"

"That is what everyone says," he remarked, "and I cannot tell why. Yet I must find out, for my father was a Clavel."

"Dat's all right, suh," responded the negro. "Some o' dese days dat grass grow up an' be as green as you are."

FARMERS OF WEST MUST CHANGE SYSTEM OF FARMING

Prof. Robertson Says that the Principle of Crop Rotation has been Ignored, and that Sufficient Care has not been given to Selection of Seed

Ottawa, Ont.—A grave note of warning against the present system of farming and the prevalence of weeds in Manitoba was sounded by Prof. J. W. Robertson, chairman of the royal technical education commission at the third annual meeting of the commission of conservation.

"Manitoba," said Dr. Robertson, "could at one time be classified as a good farming province, but it is not entitled to such a classification today." His investigation showed a falling off in their products during the past few years. The reason for this serious state of affairs was, said Dr. Robertson, the fact that the principle of crop rotation had been ignored. A further reason was that seed was not sufficiently selected. The result of this was that wild oats had increased throughout the province more than one hundred per cent. within the past few years. Such a hold had it gained, indeed, that it had become a menace to the country in so far that it had threatened to force certain farmers to give up their land and leave the district.

An alarming increase of the weed was reported from all over the west. Dr. Robertson urged that the commission use every effort to have something practical done to remedy the evil, and advocated operating a few farms to demonstrate the advantage of the rotation of crops.

Hon. Clifford Sifton, chairman of the commission, advocated the development of peat throughout the parts of the country in which it was found. There were, no doubt, many interests which would strive to discourage the industry, but its development would be a great factor in solving the question. In Ottawa peat would cost about two-thirds the price of the cheapest coal, and would be clean and satisfactory.

One of the vitally important questions in connection with the conservation of the natural resources of the Dominion was contained in a report by L. G. Denis, on "Certain Phases of the Water Powers of Canada." Mr. Denis advocated a "power survey" of the Dominion, to the end that the amount and proportion of different kinds of power, such as steam, water, electric, and gas used in different localities, with cost and other particulars relative to the various localities, might be ascertained.

"It might also be well," said Mr. Denis, "to obtain all possible information regarding water power sites owned by private individuals or corporations, but not being developed.

These should be investigated, and reasons found for the non-development.

Mr. Denis further advocated the establishment of gauging stations in streams. At present, his report states, there are few streams in Canada on which artificial storage or conservation is being practiced, probably because it has not yet become commercially economical or necessary. But, he says, this cannot go on forever, and the time will come when the last site with an economical radius will have been secured, and conservation of the stream will have to be resorted to in order to satisfy the demand for power. When the time comes to develop intelligently a conservation scheme on any stream it will be necessary to possess a complete history of its flow, for a period of at least from ten to fifteen years. Gauging is important in order to obtain this data.

VALUABLE TIMBER DESTROYED

British Columbia Seeks Federal Aid to Check Railways in Scattering Sparks.

Ottawa, Ont.—The destruction of millions of dollars worth of merchantable timber throughout the uninhabited areas of the British Columbia forests during recent years has awakened that province to the necessity of securing regulations whereby the devastation of forests may to a great degree be stopped.

It has been generally realized that the two principal causes of forest fires are campers and railways. Laws against leaving camp fires burning are already on the statute books. But it is conceded that the railways spread the most destruction. Traversing as they do the great lone stretches of uninhabited timber areas, the sparks from their locomotives start numerous fires, which gain great headway before being detected. Too often, it is pointed out, the right-of-way is piled thick with inflammable rubbish, which furnishes a tinder box for such conflagrations. The owners of destroyed property along the line find it almost impossible even under the existing laws to get damages from the railway company, so difficult is it to fix the responsibility and so expensive is the process of litigation.

Even though damages are acquired, the harm done to the natural forests cannot for years be remedied. In consequence of this, the department of lands of British Columbia has made an application to the board of railway commissioners for an order "regulating the operation of locomotives with regard to the spreading of forest fires upon adjacent lands in the dry season of the year."

The hearing has been set to take place at Ottawa on February 6, at 10 o'clock. It is not a question of obtaining damages so much as it is a question of stopping the destruction of forests altogether which will be dealt with.

Last year, under the recommendation of the committee on forests of the commission of conservation, a clause was added to the Railway Act placing the burden of proof in connection with cases of damage upon the railway companies, and making them peculiarly responsible. It is under this act that the railway commission will deal with the application.

It is understood that the suggestions made by the British Columbia department of lands will be either that in the dry season the railways take greater precautions, or that they be asked to install oil-burning locomotives.

Thirty Vessels are Frozen in the Ice

Washington.—Thirty American fishing vessels, with a cargo of frozen herrings, valued at $850,000, are imprisoned in ice-floes off the coast of Newfoundland, and threatened with destruction. In response to an appeal from Collector of Customs Jordon, of Gloucester, Mass., Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Baily has ordered the revenue cutters Androscoggin and Gresham to their assistance.

Seed Grain for Destitute Homesteaders

Ottawa, Ont.—Minister of the Interior, Hon. Robert Rogers, will this spring advance to destitute homesteaders on unpatented lands, seed grain, particularly wheat and oats, for the coming season, a lien being taken on the homestead for the value of the grain so advanced.

A NEW H. B. ROUTE

Suggestion Anew Hudson's Bay Shipmen Make Easterners Take Notice

Ottawa, Ont.—The proposal made by Hon. Frank Cochrane, Minister of Railways, in his speech on the Hudson Bay Railway in the house that if Hudson straits proved impracticable they might run steamers across from Churchill to Nottaway river, thence to the transcontinental railway, has created a great deal of interest at Ottawa. Amongst eastern men there was scurrying for maps and much studying of routes.

The proposal of Cochrane, it is now explained, was slightly misunderstood. His suggestion was that steamers could be run from Nelson to the mouth of the Nottaway river. A branch of the transcontinental, or a private line, would be built from the mouth of the Nottaway river to connect with the transcontinental. Grain would be re-shipped at Nottaway to the transcontinental, thence to run through to the Atlantic.

It was first thought Mr. Cochrane meant that steamers should run down the Nottaway river, which is very large and navigable for a considerable distance, but it also has many rapids and to make it navigable for steamers of any size would require a big expenditure.

What adds weight to Mr. Cochrane's scheme is a matter at present before the Quebec commission—to build a line from Montreal to Nottaway.

There is said to be a splendid harbor at the mouth of the river. The distance from the west is about the same.

According to figures the distance from Saskatoon to Nelson is 700 miles. It is 500 miles from Nelson to Nottaway, or to Montreal 1,900.

LARGE INVESTMENTS FOR WEST

English Company Will Develop and Colonize in Saskatchewan

Rosthern, Sask.—W. K. Steadman, an English capitalist, was in Rosthern recently and outlined a scheme for developing and colonizing thousands of acres of land to be purchased from the C. N. R. So far as he could see Rosthern was the natural centre of lands to be purchased and would be the administrative centre.

Mr. Steadman is chairman of British East Africa Trust Co., Ltd. The company has $2,125,000 available for immediate investment. An equal amount will be invested along similar lines dependent upon the results of the first investment. The company will settle lands with the best class of British farmers.

The company was originally formed for making investments in the Orient but Steadman considered the possibilities of Western Canada were superior to the Orient and decided to personally investigate conditions.

One thing that influenced Mr. Steadman to select Rosthern was the winning by Seager Wheeler of the world's prize for wheat. Mr. Steadman visited Mr. Wheeler's farm at Rosthern and was agreeably surprised. Accompanying Mr. Steadman was Sir George Whitehouse one of the greatest of living railway engineers.

MR. DENNIS RETURNS.

C. P. R. Officials Say $5,500,000 Has Been Appropriated For Irrigation, Etc.

Calgary.—J. S. Dennis, manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's land and irrigation interests in the West, has returned to this city after an absence of nearly three months in Great Britain, during which time he made a thorough inspection of the company's agencies and transacted other general business matters.

The most important announcement made by Mr. Dennis on his return was to the effect that an appropriation of $5,500,000 was authorized for the continuation of the irrigation project, colonization, etc.

In the course of an interview Mr. Dennis expressed himself very pleased with his trip, stating that prospects for increased immigration from the Old Country this year are very bright.

LAND AREA OF THE PRAIRIES

Total of 202,797,985 Acres Estimated Available for Agriculture

Ottawa, Ont.—The annual report of the Interior Department, which was tabled recently, shows that, despite the rapid settlement in the West, only seven per cent. of the total estimated area available for agricultural cultivation was filled, according to the figures of 1910.

The total surveyed territory in the Prairie Provinces is approximately 145,000 acres, while the total land area is nearly 335,000,000 acres. The total of 202,797,985 acres are estimated to be available for cultivation.

High Milk Prices in Winnipeg

Winnipeg.—At a largely attended meeting of Manitoba dairymen and farmers engaged in producing milk, held in the city hall at the invitation of the city council, it was declared absolutely necessary to charge 20 cents a gallon to the middleman for every gallon of milk delivered in the summer and 25 cents in winter. The other important conclusion reached at the meeting was to consider eight months of the year as winter months.

Winnipeg Claims 237,339

Winnipeg, Man.—Henderson's city directory issued recently estimates the population of Greater Winnipeg, including St. Boniface, Norwood and St. James, at 237,339.

RAILWAY PROBE THOROUGH

H. W. Whitia, of Winnipeg, Named to Assist Government in Inquiry

Ottawa, Ont.—H. W. Whitia, of Winnipeg has been appointed by the government as council to undertake the enquiry on behalf of the public bureau before the railway commission into the charges laid against several western roads of discrimination by them in freight rates.

When the board issued its order for an inquiry a request was also sent to the government to appoint a counsel to assist in the investigation.

As it was a western question and one in which the west is vitally interested it was felt a western man should be appointed and the selection of Mr. Whitia is the result.

The opening date of inquiry is set for February 13 in Ottawa. The first meeting will likely be merely preliminary and to arrange for procedure.

The real investigation will probably be held in Winnipeg, while sessions will also be held in various points in the west. It is the intention of the government that the enquiry should be as broad in scope and as thorough in character as possible and a request to this effect has been made to the commission. The investigation promises to be one of the most interesting and most important ever held in Canada.

ULSTER MEN MUCH ALIVE

Meeting at Which Redmond And Churchill Speak May Cause Serious Row.

Belfast, Ireland.—Events are shaping themselves in connection with the home rule campaign in Ireland, so as to give the expectation of a lively time on February 8 when John Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists in the House of Commons, and Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty in the British cabinet, are announced to speak here on the same platform in behalf of home rule.

The Ulster council met under the presidency of the Marquis of Londonderry, a former viceroy of Ireland, and passed with acclamation, a resolution expressing astonishment at the challenge thrown out by Winston Churchill. John Redmond and Joseph Devlin, the Irish member of parliament for the west division of Belfast, who is also taking part in the demonstration on February 8.

Their participation in the Unionist meeting promises that adequate steps shall be taken to prevent the home rule meeting being held.

MEETING OF ALBERTA FARMERS

United Farmers of Alberta Advised to Follow Saskatchewan.

Edmonton, Alta.—At a recent session of the annual meeting of the United Farmers of Alberta a lively discussion was precipitated by a paper of G. W. Buchanan of Cowley, chairman of the grain elevator committee, which recommended public ownership of elevators similar to the co-operative plan in Saskatchewan.

While the plan was generally endorsed there seemed considerable misunderstanding as to how the recommendation came to be made. Another debate followed the report of the committee on seed grain.

G. J. Clark, representing the Dominion Seed Commissioner, addressed the convention. He advised farmers to test grain as to its vitality.

The report committee on packing plants disclosed the fact that so far the farmers of Alberta would agree to supply only 4,000 hogs per year, while the government called for 15,000.

Other reports read during the meeting were from the board of directors, transportation committee and Secretary Fream.

WELCOME AWAITED ROYALTY

Great Britain Will Tender Warm Reception on Return.

London, Eng.—George V. and Queen Mary, who are now on their return voyage from India, where they attended the Durbar at Delhi, are to have a great welcome on their arrival in England.

On February 4th a naval review at Spithead is to be held, and when the Royal party arrives in London, although no formal reception has been arranged, the public is prepared to accord the King and Queen an enthusiastic reception on their way from the station to Buckingham Palace.

At Malta and Gibraltar there will be a naval welcome to their Majesties in which both the British and French navies will participate.

After the return of the King and Queen to London a Thanksgiving service is to be held at St. Paul's Cathedral.

The spring will be spent in returning visits to all Colonial Courts.

Home Rule Fight Still Being Raged

London, Eng.—The Home Rule excitement is growing in Ireland, particularly in Ulster, where a vigorous campaign is in progress in the hope of creating sentiment in England against the promised bill of the Asquith ministry.

It is expected that the bill will be introduced in the House of Commons in March, but the plans of the Unionists contemplate keeping the agitation far into spring. The greatest demonstration is expected in April when Andrew Bonar Law, the Unionist leader in the House of Commons, will make an address at a Unionist rally at Belfast.

Hudson's Bay Railway Bridge

Le Pas, Keewatin.—There are now sixty men at work on the Hudson's Bay railway bridge, putting in the foundations for the last two piers remaining to be built.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON IV.—FIRST QUARTER, FOR JAN. 28, 1912.

Text of the Lesson, Luke ii, 25-38. Memory Verses, 29, 30—Golden Text, Luke ii, 30, 31, P. V.—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Being made under the law to redeem them that were under the law, He was duly circumcised according to the law and called as commanded by Gabriel when he appeared to Mary with the great announcement (Gal. iv, 4; Luke i, 31). He came to fulfill the law, to fulfill all righteousness, that He might become our righteousness (Matt. iii, 15; v, 17; II Cor. v, 21). Note the extreme poverty of Mary, as indicated by the offering she brought. Though her hand found not sufficiency of a lamb (Lev. xl, 8, margin), yet God used her to provide His Lamb, without blemish and without spot, to fulfill all types and to provide eternal redemption by His great sacrifice of Himself (I Pet. i, 19; 20; Heb. ix, 12, 14). The great purpose of God is so far beyond our comprehension, His ways and thoughts so much higher than ours, that even though we may know the facts, or some of them, the reach of them, from eternity to eternity, is so high for us (Ps. xc, 2). What an unspeakable honor to belong to Him, to be part of Him and a joint heir with Him of His kingdom and party.

Some of the things written of Simon are true of every redeemed one for all true believers are just as righteous and have the Holy Spirit. All should be devout, Spirit taught and guided and waiting for the coming of the Lord. The words "just, devout, waiting," describe the threefold salvation of every believer as set forth in I Thess. i, 9, 10; Tit. ii, 11-13, and elsewhere. By the precious blood of Christ we are now saved, and by His Spirit we should ever live devoutly and love His appearing. His title, "the consolation of Israel" (verse 25), reminds us of Isa. lxvi, 13; Zeph. iii, 14, 15; Zech. ii, 10-12, and we think also of another title, "the hope of Israel" (Jer. xlv, 8; xvii, 13; Acts xxviii, 20), but this carries us beyond our threefold salvation to the next step in God's plan, our return with Christ in His glory for the redemption of Israel and the establishment of His kingdom. In verses 25-27 of our lesson we see the Spirit upon Simeon, the Spirit teaching him and guiding him to the temple at the right time to find the child. It is our privilege to be thus Spirit taught and led. May we know the reality.

The aged saint, holding the child in his arms, looking fondly and reverently upon Him, while Joseph and Mary stood listening to his wonderful words and marvelling at them, is indeed a beautiful picture. Listen to him as he desires not to depart, having seen with his own eyes, and actually embraced the Lord's anointed. To him this child was the fulfillment of prophecy, but with prophetic vision he saw a time of trouble before the coming of the kingdom. Think upon his words as he held the child, "Mine eyes have seen Thy salvation." Jacob said, "I have waited for Thy salvation O, Lord" (Gen. xlii, 18). Moses and David and Isaiah sang, "The Lord is become my salvation" (Ex. xv, 2; Ps. cxvii, 14; Isa. xli, 2). Every true believer can say the same and rejoice in the words of this same child when grown to manhood, "Blessed are they that have not seen and yet have believed." "Thy salvation, which thou hast prepared" (verses 30, 31). It is of the Lord, wholly and only. He who said: "I am the Lord, that maketh all things, that stretcheth forth the heavens alone, that spreadeth abroad the earth by Myself." He is the author and finisher of it (Isa. xlvi, 23; Heb. xii, 2). It will in due time fill the earth, for all flesh shall see the salvation of God (chapter iii, 6). Compare Isa. xl, 5; xlii, 6; iii, 10. He is in the present age a light to lighten the gentiles, and when by the light His body, the church, shall have been gathered from all nations then shall He return as the glory of Israel, and all nations shall be fully enlightened by Him through Israel (Isa. ix, 1-3). There is neither light nor glory apart from Him. All else is darkness, under the ruler of the darkness of this world (Eph. v, 8; vi, 12). But if the light has shone in our hearts it is in order that we may turn others from darkness to light and from the power of Satan unto God (II Cor. iv, 6; Acts xxvi, 18). Individual salvation is only and wholly by Him who came from Judah, who died for us and rose again, and the salvation of the nations will be through the nation of which He will be the King, for "salvation is of the world" (John iv, 22), whether individual or national. How perplexing the words except in the light of prophecy, concerning the falling and rising again of many and the sign to be spoken against, but when we remember His death and resurrection is predicted in Ps. xxii, Isa. lxx and many of the types and His coming in glory to set up His Kingdom all is more clear. That which Mary had to bear from misunderstandings by others who would not believe the

Work Done Last Week in the Legislature

The House resumed on Monday with most of the members in attendance.

The principle work of the week so far has been on the Towns and Rural Municipalities' Bills. During the recess these two bills were reprinted, embodying all the changes made by the House from the original draft of the bill, and it was necessary that every clause be reviewed a second time.

An important bill dealing with the hail insurance problem was introduced by Premier Sifton, but as the second reading has not come up yet, the details and principles of the bill are not yet disclosed.

Another bill of considerable importance relates to Steam Boilers, and is introduced by Premier Sifton.
It defines a boiler as any boiler not carrying less than twenty pounds pressure, and not used for heating water for domestic purposes nor for the purpose of generating steam for heating buildings. An inspection certificate shall not be granted for any new boiler that does not conform to certain standard regulations.

The greatest interest of the week has been with respect to the application of the Royal Bank and the
A. & G. W. Company, for the disallowance of the statute passed by the Legislature last year respecting the latter Company. A very political pressure as well as the powerful influence of certain financial interests, it is said, were used in pressing the claim for disallowance before the Privy Council at Ottawa.
Considerable fear was expressed that the Borden Government would disallow the Bill.

The Bill has not been disallowed and the Government at Ottawa has followed the precedents of the past in leaving those matters of purely provincial concern to the provinces.

The position of the Government respecting the constitutional aspects of disallowance, and the facts of the case, were stated in a written memorandum to the Privy Council at Ottawa, with singular clearness and ability by the Premier himself.
He showed that the action of the Company clearly justified the can-celation of the contract. His exposition of the banking methods of the Alberta and Great Waterways, and the default of the Company in the payment of the interest is shown in such a clear light that the duty of the Legislature was very plain.

Lastly he points out that the legislation complained of was not constituted a violation of the constitutional rights of the Province.

fiscatory and does not interfere with vested rights but is directed solely to the enforcement of the principles in a fair manner and in the best way possible, all legitimate rights, and that such enforcement is demanded as a matter of public policy. The fact that the bonds at the present time are quoted at twelve per cent above par is conclusive proof that money investors in the financial centres of the world are not afraid to stake their faith in these bonds.

Are You Mortgaged

Many farmers in this Western Country labor under a serious disadvantage of having to pay heavy rates of interest on mortgages owing to the lack of sufficient capital to start with. Interest from 8 to 12
p. c. is too high. The Family Herald and Weekly Star has taken up the fight of the Western farmers in earnest, and is urging the Government to establish a loan system to assist them.

The Family Herald and Weekly
Star wants the Government to borrow large sums in England at a low rate and guarantee principle and interest, and loan the money, under proper supervision, to farmers at a reasonable rate. Never did a paper take up a more worthy cause, and
The Family Herald and Weekly
Star are well worth reading and deserves the credit of every Westerner.
The paper costs only one dollar per year and is the best value in the newspaper world.

He is Highly Recommended

Rev. Mr. Chalmers, of the Presbyterian church is bringing to Bowden the famous tenor singer, Mr. J R. D. McAusland, known as Signor Ausland. Lovers of music and especially singing, will be delighted to hear this great singer. A cler-gyman in this province who has heard him recently, writes;

"Mr. McAusland is the most wonderful singer that I have ever heard, and I have heard some of the world's best. No audience can possibly be anything but delighted with his marvellous singing and unique interpretations of well known songs and solos, to say nothing of his ability to render perfectly the tenor solos of such masters as Handel, Mendelssohn, Rossini, and other great masters."

Those who attend will not only have the privilege of hearing some of our most beautiful melodies sung by a tenor vocalist of the first rank, but in addition will, after hearing his lesson, be able to train their own voices and thereafter be enabled to speak and sing correctly themselves.

FOR BURNS—ZAM-BUK

Stops Pain at Once

This is the verdict of all who have tried Zam-Buk. The woman in the home knows best its value. A burn from the stove, from a flat-iron, or a hot pan, is instantly soothed by Zam-Buk. When the little ones fall and cut or scratch themselves, Zam-Buk stops the pain and, incidentally, their crying. The best proof of this is the fact that children who have once had Zam-Buk applied come for it again.

For many serious burns, too, it is unequalled. Mr. John Johnston, of 734 South Marks Street, Fort William, a moulder in Copp's Foundry, says: "Some time ago I burned the top of my foot severely by dropping some molten iron from a ladie I was carrying. A large hole was burned through my shoe and into the top of my foot. I was taken home and Zam-Buk was applied to the burn directly. It was surprising what relief this balm afforded. The burn was so deep and so serious that it required careful attention, but Zam-Buk prevented other complications arising, and as it was daily applied, soothed the pains and allayed the inflammation. In the course of two weeks the hole burned in my foot had been quite healed."

Mr. W. B. Gibson, of Belleville, writes: "We have tried Zam-Buk often on cuts and sores, and I think there is nothing that can equal it."

Zam-Buk will also be found a sure cure for cold sores, chapped hands, frost bites, ulcers, blood-poison, varicose sores, piles, scalp sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, babies' eruptions and chapped places and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than in other districts put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and gave no remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood, and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

"Dad" and "daddy" were well known in this country in the sixteenth century; "pappa" did not come in, borrowed from abroad, until the seventeenth century was well advanced. Florio, at the end of the former century defined the Italian "pappa" as "the first word that children are taught to call their father, as ours say 'dad' or 'daddie'." "Dad" seems to be the commoner to mankind of the two. Nausicaa in the "Odyssey" calls her father "pappa phile," dear papa, but Greek had "tata" also, and Welsh has "tat" and Irish "daid."

The change of dietary that comes with spring and summer has the effect in weak stomachs of setting up inflammation, resulting in dysentery and cholera morbus. The abnormal condition will continue if not attended to, and will cause an exhaustive drain on the system. The best available medicine is Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. It clears the stomach and bowels of irritants, counteracts the inflammation and restores the organs to healthy action.

For Diseases of the Skin

THERE IS NO TREATMENT SO CERTAIN TO RELIEVE THE ITCHING AND HEAL THE SORES AS

Dr. Chase's Ointment

The one common feature of nearly all skin diseases is itching, annoying and oftentimes almost unendurable itching.

The strong point about Dr. Chase's Ointment is that by reason of its remarkable soothing qualities it relieves itching from the moment it is applied. But Dr. Chase's Ointment does more than this. It is composed of the greatest healing ingredients known to science, and its healing powers are often described as magical.

Allaying the inflammation, relieving the itching and gradually and naturally healing the raw, flaming flesh, Dr. Chase's Ointment is the most effective treatment for eczema and salt rheum that was ever discovered.

There are many kinds of eczema, and nearly all itching skin diseases come under this head, in children it is known as teething eczema, and many a fond mother will tell you with heart felt gratitude of how her little one was rescued from torturing, itching eczema by the use of this great ointment.

Wherever there is itching skin or a sore that refuses to heal Dr. Chase's Ointment will positively prove effective as a relief and a cure.

Dr. Chase's Ointment has an unparalleled record of cures; 60c. a box at all dealers, or Edmans, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

"The mosquito," writes Consul Cole from Dawson, "is more numerous in the Arctic zone than in the tropics, though there is no land too cold or too hot for its habitation, and the only place where it is not found is in localities where there is little or no moisture. There is no country where the mosquitoes are so large and so numerous as they are in the Klondike, and it is impossible to destroy them, as they propagate in the heavy moss that grows here, which contains moisture almost equal to swamp lands."

Mule Was Uninjured

Senator John Sharp Williams, whose supply of darky stories seems inexhaustible, tells this new one:

"I was proceeding leisurely along a Georgian road on foot one day, when I met a conveyance drawn by a mule and containing a number of negro field-hands. The driver, a darky of about twenty, was endeavoring to increase its speed, when suddenly the animal let fly with his heels and dealt him such a kick that he was stretched on the ground in a twinkling. He lay rubbing his woolly plate where the mule had kicked him.

"Is he hurt?" I asked anxiously of an old negro, who had jumped from the conveyance and was standing over the prostrate driver.

"No boss," was the older man's reply, "dat mule will walk kind o' tendah fo' a day or two, but he ain't hurt."

Fish Culture in Canada

Hatching fish by artificial means to stock the waters of Canada is engaged in on a large scale by the Dominion Government. In 1909 the Dominion fish hatcheries planted no less than 1,024,282,000 fry in various waters throughout the country. In 1908 only 1,024,282,000 fry were planted by the Government fish hatcheries, so that the plant of young fish has increased by nearly 277 per cent. in the past ten years and the number of hatcheries has increased from 12 to 37 or 208 per cent. Of the 37 hatcheries now in operation, British Columbia and Quebec have 8 each, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Ontario, 5 each; Manitoba and Prince Edward Island each have 3.

The amount voted by the Dominion Parliament for fish culture purposes in 1909 was $322,300, and of this $180,345, or approximately 56 per cent. was expended. The importance of carrying on this work cannot be emphasized too much in a growing country like Canada, where the increasing population is making greater and greater demands on the fish supply.

It Makes New Friends Every Day.—Not a single day goes by that Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil does not widen the circle of its friends. Orders for it come from the most unlikely places in the west and far north, for its fame has travelled far. It deserves this attention, for no oil has done so much for humanity. Its moderate cost makes it easy to get.

A Fast Drive

Frank Work, deafly, loved a fast trotter. By the same token he hated to drive at a slow pace.

A friend took him out one day behind a pair of bays. Either the bays were slow or the driver believed in sparing his horse flesh. At any rate Work returned home in a rather glum humor.

"Did you have a nice drive, father?" one of his daughters asked.

"Nice!" snorted Work. "Why the very horses passed us cheering as they went by."
